

PRESS RELEASE

NEW REAL ESTATE MARKETING COMPANY IN HOMER, ALASKA

Alaska Land Company is proud to present custom homesites in the heart of the Kenai Peninsula: Canyon Trails, Canyon Rim Park, Bridge Creek Crossing and Lookout Mountain Park.

Land developer John Fowler formed Alaska Land Company with his brother, Thomas Fowler, and Laura Levy, who also own Crescent Partners, headquartered in Boulder, Colorado. Their vision is to market homesite properties that preserve the natural environment and that enjoy access to the extensive trail network that is being shaped in the Homer, AK area.

Canyon Trails is currently Alaska Land Company's signature community. Its thirty-one improved sites of varied acreage are ideal for a custom home or a vacation cottage. Canyon Trails offers full city services, including septic, electric, and water. The homesites enjoy views of Kachemak Bay and of the glaciers, with most of the building envelopes facing south, toward the Pacific Ocean. The community is heavily treed for a peaceful ambiance, with several of the sites featuring tree-lined borders.

Canyon Rim Park neighbors Canyon Trails and consists of six exclusive sites overlooking the canyon floor. Bridge Creek Crossing offers twenty-four rugged remote properties. Lookout Mountain Park, John Fowler's first development in Homer, is located at a dramatic elevation, with just two prime sites remaining available.

The Alaska Land Company Sales Center is now open near the gateway to the Homer Spit, at 1104 Ocean Drive. For pricing and sales information on these one-of-a-kind wilderness properties, call the Sales Center at 907.399.9200 or visit www.alaskalandcompany.com.
